

Look Ma, No Hands

Peeping Tom? Hollywood stuntman? Burglar? Nah...this Spiderman wannabe is installing windows on the 7th floor of a new building overseas. It's interesting to see that there is not much of a windowsill to stand on and he's completely shut out of the building by the glass. Brave soul.

Hey, the job just ain't worth it if you're going to die before you can pick up your paycheck. Consider the risks before you put yourself out on a limb (or ledge). It doesn't take that long to put on a safety harness or whatever other safety equipment you need for the job.

What's that you say...A harness is uncomfortable? Yeah, maybe, but not as uncomfortable as that long drop to the asphalt. Think about it.